1. Introduction

1.1 Scope

This policy applies to all pupils, including those in the Early Years.

1.2 Purpose

Pupils need knowledge and skills that will enable them to make informed and ethical decisions about their wellbeing, health, and relationships.

High quality, evidence-based teaching of relationships, sex and health education (RSHE) will:

- Prepare pupils for the opportunities and responsibilities of adult life
- Promote pupils' moral, social, mental, and physical development
- Support pupils to cultivate positive characteristics including resilience, self-worth, self-respect, honesty, integrity, courage, kindness, and trustworthiness
- Support prevention of harms by helping pupils understand and identify when things are not right

At Breaside Preparatory School, we fully embrace these aims and embed them within our own school ethos and values. Our PSHE and RSHE provision is underpinned by our core values of resilience, respect, inclusivity, independence, and curiosity – values that shape an environment in which pupils feel safe, supported, and empowered to grow as individuals and as members of their wider community.

Through our RSHE curriculum, pupils are encouraged to recognise their own worth, build positive relationships with others, and take increasing responsibility for their own learning and wellbeing. We nurture their curiosity about the world around them, foster mutual respect and inclusivity in all relationships, and equip them with the confidence and skills to navigate the moral, social, and cultural challenges that are a natural part of growing up – preparing them to become thoughtful, responsible global citizens.

1.3 Curriculum (for more information, see below Section 6)

RSHE forms part of the school curriculum. We see the curriculum as:

‘The total learning experience for our pupils, which includes not only the taught lessons but also the routines, behaviours, events, activities and other opportunities that pupils experience on a daily, weekly and yearly basis in order to ensure that all of them make the best progress possible and attain high standards’.

A well-structured and coherent curriculum is a fundamental element of the tripartite education that underpins all successful schools and includes:

- Teaching, Learning, and Assessment which is underpinned by Wellbeing.
- The RSHE programme is taught through, but not limited to, dedicated lessons, supporting activities in form times, assemblies, and the use of visiting speakers (see Section 5 for more information about Delivery).
- Aspects of RSHE are also infused within the day-to-day operation of our school; incorporated through the curriculum, both in content included in subject schemes of work and through other planned learning opportunities in the school. They are captured in our written aims and expressed in the ethos and behaviours of everyone.

1.4 Aims of our RSHE Programme

The aims of our RSHE programme at our school are to enable pupils to:

- Have a clear understanding of appropriate relationships and the laws surrounding these
- Learn how to adopt healthy nurturing relationships of all kinds, not just intimate relationships, understanding that healthy relationships are an important part of wellbeing
- Learn about age-appropriate topics to aid them to work out a personal morality and value system, respecting cultural, religious and family background
- Understand the importance of inclusivity and respect for diversity in today's modern society, through an understanding of, but not limited to, protected characteristics/equivalent, such as, but not limited to disabilities, religious beliefs, sexual orientations, and age
- Develop an age-appropriate understanding of physical, mental, sexual, and emotional health and the ways to recognise when adjustments and improvements are needed and how
- Explore and understand their feelings, attitudes and values and those of others, and to address legal, moral and social questions relevant to forming healthy, enjoyable and fulfilling relationships
- Develop confidence and self-belief in their ability to achieve their aspirations, and the self-awareness to make informed choices about future life decisions
- Equip them with the ability to deal with a range of spiritual, moral, cultural and political issues, through articulating themselves sensitively and thoughtfully, along with the ability to empathise and sympathise with the views of others
- Make decisions from knowledge, using critical thinking
- Know how and where to get further support, and advice if required

Our RSHE programme will fulfil our statutory duties (below), promote pupil engagement with the Fundamental British Values; and as part of this to encourage pupils to have respect for democracy and support for participation in the democratic process, including respect for the basis on which the law is made and applied in England.

2. Relevant Requirements and Related Policies

2.1 This policy is underpinned by the following:

Guidance and Legislation

- Keeping Children Safe in Education (latest version)

Related Policies

The policy must be read in conjunction with the following school policies:

- Anti- Bullying Policy
- Curriculum Policy
- Safeguarding and Child Protection Policy
- SEND Policy
- IT Policy
- Drugs and Alcohol Policy
- Behaviour Policy
- Health and Safety Policy

Compulsory requirements

Sections 34 and 35 of the Children and Social Work Act (2017) make Relationships Education compulsory for all pupils receiving primary education.

Relationships and Sex Education (RSE) is also compulsory for all pupils receiving secondary education.

Personal, Social, Health and Economic education (PSHE) continues to be compulsory in independent schools.

Parents/carers have the right to request that their child be withdrawn from some or all of sex education delivered as part of statutory RSHE (see below Section 9).

3. Policy Development

3.1 Effective RSHE is important for promoting and protecting the wellbeing of all pupils.

The school is committed to working closely with parents/carers to deliver high quality meaningful RSHE. This is because as primary carers, parents are uniquely placed to discuss these issues with their children whilst maintaining the culture and ethos of their family.

The school will seek to work in partnership with parents/carers to enable them to feel confident about the school's RSHE programme, including that it will be delivered sensitively and inclusively, respecting all backgrounds and beliefs.

Following the central review by Cognita (the proprietor), this policy is developed by the school in consultation with parents/carers, pupils, and staff. Listening and responding to the views of pupils and parents/carers helps to ensure that our RSHE programme meets pupils' needs and that topics are taught at the right time to support pupils to build positive relationships and avoid harms before they occur.

The policy development process involves the following steps:

3.2 Parent/carers

Sending parents/carers:

(September 2024 & September 2025 *=2024 and 2025)

- The draft RSHE policy and inviting them to comment
- The planned RSHE programme (scheme of work) for their child's year group*
- Termly newsletters with RSHE content within them*
- Proactive communication to inform parents before RSHE content is delivered*
- Work that their children have completed in lessons in relation to content*
- A representative sample of the resources that the school will be using*
- Signposting to organisation that may support them*
- Directing parents/carers to curated, age-appropriate resources and literature to facilitate discussions at home*

Inviting parents/carers into school to drop in sessions to present, discuss and explore:

(4 dates in November 2024 and 2 dates in November 2025)

- The curriculum content in the RSHE programme (scheme of work)
- The resources that are going to be used in lessons
- The importance of RSHE for their child's wellbeing and safety
- Any concerns that have arisen as an outcome of any RSHE topics
- How they can manage conversations with their child (ren) about RSHE topics
- Making parents/carers aware of the addition of the 'Conception' unit in Year 6 in 2024-2025 academic year
- Informing parents/carers of changes to when RSHE context was to be taught in 2025-2026 academic year, and of the extended time allocated to Puberty sessions – enabling more space for children's questions, thorough coverage of the curriculum, and a stronger focus on emotional well-being, not just physical changes

3.3 Pupils

Pupil voice and feedback is gathered through a range of methods embedded within our PSHE/RSHE curriculum:

- Baseline and end-of-unit assessments – Pupils complete a baseline assessment at the start of each RSHE unit to establish prior knowledge, and an end-of-unit assessment to measure progress and understanding. These are recorded and held as evidence of curriculum coverage and pupil development.
- Self-assessment statements with a traffic light system – At the end of RSHE lessons, pupils self-assess their confidence and understanding using a traffic light system. This provides immediate, lesson-level feedback and informs teacher planning and any necessary revisiting of content.
- Ask It Basket (Question Box) – An anonymous question box is available following RSHE lessons, allowing pupils to raise questions or concerns in a safe and confidential way. Questions are reviewed by the class teacher and addressed appropriately, ensuring all pupils feel heard and supported.

- Verbal feedback – Teachers actively seek verbal feedback from pupils following RSHE lessons, enabling real-time responses to pupil experience and understanding.

The feedback gathered through these methods across the 2024–2025 and 2025–2026 academic years has been reviewed and used to inform ongoing developments to our RSHE curriculum and resources, ensuring content remains relevant, age-appropriate, and responsive to the needs and experiences of our pupils.

3.4 Staff

Staff responsible for delivering RSHE are provided with regular opportunities to review the curriculum and provide feedback.

- Curriculum review meetings – Staff delivering RSHE have participated in curriculum review meetings during the 2024–2025 and 2025–2026 academic years, providing opportunities to reflect on lesson content, share observations, and suggest refinements to resources and sequencing.
- Professional development and training – Staff have been supported with relevant CPD on an ad-hoc basis, primarily through one-to-one sessions with the PSHE lead and specialist RSHE teacher, who together provide leadership and oversight of RSHE to ensure the highest quality of provision. This has included guidance on handling sensitive topics, responding to pupil questions, and maintaining appropriate boundaries within lessons.
- Resource and planning review – Staff have been given the opportunity to review and explore RSHE planning and resources, feeding into the curriculum map and adjusting topics as appropriate to meet the needs of each cohort.
- Feedback mechanisms – Staff have been given structured opportunities to raise concerns, share best practice, and contribute to the ongoing development of the RSHE curriculum, including through staff meetings, staff briefings, and line management meetings.
- Policy familiarisation – All staff delivering RSHE have been made aware of, and have confirmed their understanding of, the school's RSHE policy, including updates reflecting current legislation.

3.5 Ratification

In light of parent/carer, pupil, and/or staff feedback, this policy was modified where appropriate.

Once amendments were made, this policy was approved by the school Managing Director (Chair of Governors), and made available via the school website.

Free copies of this policy are also available via the school office for consultation by parents/carers.

Parents/carers may also email the school at info@breaside.co.uk to request hard copies which can be made freely available in large print or other accessible format if required.

4. Roles and Responsibilities

4.1 The Chair of Governors (Managing Director)

The Chair of Governors (MD) will hold the Headteacher/Principal to account for the implementation of this policy during governance meetings.

The Chair of Governors will ensure that:

- All pupils make progress in achieving the expected educational outcomes
- The subjects are well led, effectively managed and well planned
- The quality of provision is subject to regular and effective self-evaluation
- Teaching is delivered in ways that are accessible to all pupils with SEND (see below)
- Teaching is sensitive to the needs of all pupils with protected characteristics

- Clear information is provided for parents/carers on the subject content and the right to request that their child is withdrawn and
- The subjects are resourced, staffed and timetabled in a way that ensures that the school can fulfil its legal obligations

4.2 The Headteacher/Principal

The Headteacher/Principal is responsible for ensuring that RSHE is taught consistently across the school, and for managing requests to withdraw pupils from non-statutory/non-science components of RSHE. They are also responsible for ensuring that all those teaching RSHE subject matter have had the appropriate training and receive support.

4.3 Leaders of RSHE

The RSHE programme is led by the PSHE & RSHE lead(s) who work in conjunction with all staff to ensure there is a spiral programme throughout the school. A spiral programme ensures that topics gradually increase in content and depth to match the growing needs and understanding of pupils.

The RSHE Lead will need to work closely with colleagues in related curriculum areas to ensure the subjects complement and do not duplicate content covered in curriculum subjects. The RSHE Lead will look for opportunities across other curriculum subjects to reinforce concepts introduced in RSHE, for example discussing misogyny in the context of history or using examples in literature to discuss positive and less positive examples of relationships.

4.4 Staff

All staff are responsible for:

- Delivering RSHE in a sensitive way
- Modelling positive attitudes to RSHE
- Monitoring pupil progress
- Responding to the needs of individual pupils, including any safeguarding concerns that arise
- Responding appropriately to pupils whose parents wish them to be withdrawn from the non-statutory/non-science components of RSHE

Staff do not have the right to opt out of teaching RSHE.

Staff who have concerns about teaching RSHE are encouraged to discuss this with the Headteacher/Principal.

5. Delivery of the RSHE Programme

5.1 Curriculum

For more information about our Curriculum, please see our separate Curriculum Policy.

Please also refer to the RHSE topic content and our curriculum map, both of which can be found in the Appendices.

The RSHE curriculum will be delivered as part of a whole school approach to wellbeing and positive relationships, supported by other school policies, including, but not limited to the Behaviour Policy and the Safeguarding and Child Protection Policy.

5.2 Approach

The school is committed to creating a safe and supportive learning environment where RSHE is taught.

A strong rapport is built with the staff member through a positive classroom atmosphere of mutual respect and where no question or comment is dismissed or disregarded, which allows for open discussions and sharing of knowledge without judgement.

Staff are encouraged to create a partnership agreement i.e. ground rules with their pupils at the start of each academic year and to refer to it when necessary. Pupils are expected to consider others' needs by respectfully and sensitively listening and abiding by the above agreement. Lessons are introduced and structured by staff to ensure that respectful listening occurs. This is set up at the start of each topic and reiterated when required.

5.3 Staff Training

Staff responsible for delivering RSHE are provided with regular opportunities to review the curriculum and provide feedback.

All staff delivering the RSHE curriculum are provided with appropriate support within lessons where needed.

RSHE is taught by Form Teachers from Year 1 through to Year 6. In Year 5, the Puberty topic is delivered by a specialist PSHE teacher within PSHE lessons and by the Science teacher within Science lessons, with follow-up sessions facilitated by the Year 5 Form Teachers. In Year 6, the Conception topic is led by the RSHE leads, with support from the specialist Science teacher, and follow-up sessions are carried out by the Year 6 Form Teachers.

- Curriculum review meetings – Staff delivering RSHE have participated in curriculum review meetings during the 2024–2025 and 2025–2026 academic years, providing opportunities to reflect on lesson content, share observations, and suggest refinements to resources and sequencing.
- Professional development and training – Staff have been supported with relevant CPD on an ad-hoc basis, primarily through one-to-one sessions with the PSHE lead and specialist RSHE teacher, who together provide leadership and oversight of RSHE to ensure the highest quality of provision. This has included guidance on handling sensitive topics, responding to pupil questions, and maintaining appropriate boundaries within lessons.
- Resource and planning review – Staff have been given the opportunity to review and explore RSHE planning and resources, feeding into the curriculum map and adjusting topics as appropriate to meet the needs of each cohort.
- Feedback mechanisms – Staff have been given structured opportunities to raise concerns, share best practice, and contribute to the ongoing development of the RSHE curriculum, including through staff meetings, staff briefings, and line management meetings.
- Policy familiarisation – All staff delivering RSHE have been made aware of, and have confirmed their understanding of, the school's RSHE policy, including updates reflecting current legislation.
- Safeguarding awareness – All staff delivering RSHE are familiar with the school's safeguarding policy and understand their responsibilities in relation to disclosures that may arise during RSHE lessons. Staff are clear on the appropriate procedures to follow should a pupil share a concern or make a disclosure during or following a lesson.
- Guidance on sensitive topic delivery – Staff are supported in delivering sensitive topics with confidence and care, ensuring content is presented in an age-appropriate, factual, and balanced way. This includes guidance on managing pupil questions sensitively, maintaining a safe classroom environment, and signposting pupils to further support where needed.
- Familiarity with curriculum content – Prior to delivering RSHE units, staff are given the opportunity to familiarise themselves with the curriculum content, resources, and lesson materials, ensuring they feel prepared and confident in their delivery.

- Ongoing support from RSHE leads – Staff have access to ongoing guidance and support from the PSHE lead and specialist RSHE teacher, who are available to advise on the delivery of specific topics, respond to staff concerns, and provide additional resources where required.
- Support from PSHE provider – 1Decision – The school works in partnership with 1Decision, our PSHE curriculum provider, who supply all planning and resources, and ensure full coverage of statutory requirements. In addition to this, 1Decision provide staff with access to CPD documents, training videos, and regular online sessions, offering ongoing professional development and support to ensure confident and high-quality delivery of RSHE content.

5.4 The law

There will be a range of opinions regarding some topics within RSHE. Therefore, the starting principle should be that applicable law should be taught in a factual way so that pupils are clear about their rights and responsibilities as citizens.

Pupils will be made aware of the relevant legal provisions associated with the country in which their school is located, when relevant topics are being taught, including for example those relating to:

- Marriage, including forced marriage and civil partnerships
- Consent, including the age of consent
- Domestic abuse, stalking, coercive and controlling behaviour, rape, sexual offences, female genital mutilation (FGM), ‘virginity testing’ and hymenoplasty
- Sexual abuse, harassment and exploitation, including public sexual harassment and harmful sexual behaviour
- The Online Safety Act
- Online behaviours including image and information sharing (including self-generated intimate sexual imagery/videos, including those generated by AI e.g. deepfakes). Pupils should understand the law about online sexual harassment and online sexual abuse including grooming and sextortion.
- Pornography
- Abortion
- Protected characteristics/equivalent (for example, age, disability, gender reassignment, marriage and civil partnership, pregnancy and maternity, race, religion or belief, sex, sexual orientation)
- Alcohol, smoking, vaping and nicotine products and illicit drug use
- Gambling
- Carrying knives and weapons
- Extremism/radicalisation
- Grooming or exploiting children into criminal activity, which can include gang involvement and county lines drug running
- Hate crime
- The age of criminal responsibility
- Medical consent
- Parental responsibility
- Gillick competence

5.5 Equal Opportunities

Under the provisions of the Equality Act (2010), schools are required to comply with relevant requirements of the Equality Act 2010, including the Public sector equality duty \(PSED\) (s.149), when teaching RSHE.

The school will not unlawfully discriminate against pupils because of their protected characteristics/equivalent, for example: age, sex, race, disability, religion or belief, gender reassignment, pregnancy or maternity, marriage or civil partnership, or sexual orientation

The school is proud of its inclusive culture, and supports, embraces, celebrates and promotes the needs/interests of all members of the community.

As such, the RSHE programme is accessible for all pupils. High quality teaching that is differentiated and personalised will be the starting point to ensure this accessibility.

The PSHE/RSHE Lead(s) ensures the RSHE programme is continually updated and relevant to the current needs of pupils. This is done through feedback and discussions with pupils, PSHE Association recommendations, guidance from the government or local bodies, advice from the Cognita Regional Safeguarding Lead (Europe and USA), and keeping up to date with current news.

Vulnerabilities

The School is aware that some pupils may be more emotionally vulnerable than others in different lessons, for example, due to the death or serious illness of a close relative, mental health issues, previous trauma, and/or other safeguarding concerns. Staff are informed in these instances by leadership, (including the DSL) and approaches to learning will be adapted for those pupils where needed. Topics to be covered will be scrutinised before lessons take place in order to identify any sensitivities related to specific pupils. Parents/carers and the individual pupils will also be notified and supported if there are any potentially challenging topics, so that they can speak with the staff member if they have any concerns. Strategies will be put in place before, during, and following any relevant sessions to ensure the safety and emotional wellbeing of these vulnerable pupils. In some exceptional cases, where the topic has the potential to be particularly triggering for an individual pupil, a decision will be made in partnership with their parents/carers, that the pupil will be excused from a specific lesson, and receive the content in a safe one to one session so that they can receive bespoke support.

SEND

The school ensures that pupils with Special Educational Needs and Disabilities (SEND) requirements are known to RSHE teachers and that these are taken into consideration in the planning and delivery of lessons. Staff are aware that pupils with SEND may be more vulnerable than their peers to the continuum of sexual behaviours, child-on-child abuse, exploitation and violence, and other issues. RSHE can be particularly important for these pupils, particularly those with social, emotional and mental health needs or learning disabilities.

Further details of our SEND provision can be found in our Special Educational Needs and Disability (SEND) Policy.

Fundamental British Values

Respect for the Fundamental British Values is central to the design of our RSHE programme and are interwoven throughout sessions.

The Fundamental British Values are:

1. Democracy
2. The rule of law
3. Individual liberty
4. Mutual respect

Family Life

The school will be sensitive to pupils' circumstances, recognising that families of many forms provide a nurturing environment for children, and can include single parent families, same-sex parents, families headed by grandparents, young carers, kinship carers, adoptive parents and foster parents/carers. Teaching will illustrate a wide range of family structures in a positive way, and care will be taken to ensure that pupils are not stigmatised based on their home circumstances.

Religion

Teaching will be sensitive to the religious background of pupils.

The schools will comply with the relevant provisions of the Equality Act 2010, under which religion or belief are amongst the protected characteristics.

Gender

Pupils will learn about all protected characteristics/equivalent, including the facts and the law about biological sex and gender reassignment. This will help them understand and recognise that people have legal rights by virtue of their biological sex which are different from the rights of those of the opposite sex with the protected characteristic of gender reassignment. Pupils will also be taught to recognise that people with the protected characteristic of gender reassignment have protection from discrimination and should be treated with respect and dignity.

In teaching this, the staff will be mindful that, beyond the facts and the law about biological sex and gender reassignment, there is ongoing and significant debate. Therefore, staff must:

- Not endorse any particular view
- Not teach as fact that all people have a gender identity
- Avoid language and activities which repeat or enforce gender stereotypes
- Not promote any politically partisan views or ideological standpoints
- Be mindful to avoid any suggestion that social transition is a simple solution to feelings of distress or discomfort
- Avoid resources that use cartoons or diagrams that oversimplify the topic, that could be interpreted as being aimed at younger pupils, and/or that perpetuate stereotypes or encourage pupils to question their gender
- Consult parents/carers on the content of external resources on this topic in advance and make all materials available to them on request

Addressing the continuum of sexual behaviours

Please see the Safeguarding and Child Protection Policy for further information.

Preventing the continuum of more harmful sexual behaviours starts from the support pupils receive in the primary stage through RSHE programmes. Supporting pupils to develop the skills they need to build healthy relationships is part of a whole school approach and underpins schools' policies, including behaviour and safeguarding, to ensure that an ethos of kindness and respect is evident throughout the school.

Within the sequenced RHSE programme, pupils will be taught in an age-appropriate way to understand that anyone can be a victim of problematic sexual behaviour, harmful sexual behaviour, sexual harassment and/or sexual violence, regardless of sex, sexual orientation, gender reassignment or any other protected characteristic/equivalent. Staff will clearly explain that the victim of such behaviours is never to blame.

It is important to acknowledge that most sexual violence is committed against women and girls, and it often has a gendered component – for example, manifesting an inequality of power between men and women. However, anyone can be affected by sexual violence, and staff will avoid language which stigmatises boys or suggests that boys or men are always perpetrators or that girls or women are always victims.

Both within and beyond the classroom, staff will be conscious of everyday sexism, misogyny, homo/bi/trans phobia and stereotypes, and will take action to build a culture where prejudice is identified and challenged.

Pupils will be:

- Taught to understand the importance of challenging harmful beliefs and attitudes and the links between sexism and misogyny and violence against women and girls. Where misogynistic ideas are expressed at school, staff will challenge the ideas, rather than the pupil expressing them.
- Given opportunities to develop positive conceptions of masculinity and femininity, including how to identify and learn from positive male role models. It is important for pupils to understand that most boys and young men are respectful to girls and young women and each other.

Pupils may be exposed to online content which normalises harmful or violent sexual behaviours, which might include sexist and misogynistic influencers who normalise sexual harassment, violence and abuse. Pupils may be more vulnerable to this content when they have low self-esteem, are being bullied, or have other challenges in their lives. Staff will encourage pupils to consider how this content may be harmful to both men and women, while avoiding stigmatising or perpetuating harmful stereotypes about boys, and avoiding directly signposting to specific content and content producers.

It is important for pupils to understand that ethical behaviour in friendships and other relationships goes beyond respecting boundaries and consent, and that strong relationships of all types involve kindness and care. RSHE lessons will be clear that all sexual activity should involve kindness, care, attention to the needs and vulnerabilities of the other person and an awareness of the power dynamics that can exist within relationships.

RSHE lessons will ensure that both boys and girls have opportunities to practise respectful communication and understand experiences which are different from their own, including menstruation and menopause. However, in some cases, such as when a school identifies a specific need, the school may consider that separating classes by sex is the best way to create a safe space for discussion of a particular topic. This will be done in a way that avoids stigmatising boys or making girls feel like they will inevitably be victims of abusive behaviour or that it is their responsibility to protect themselves.

5.6 Prior Knowledge

The school will cover all RSHE curriculum topics, recognising that pupils can start developing healthy behaviour and relationship skills as soon as they start school. Knowledge and understanding are ensured and built on through a well-sequenced curriculum from 2 ½ -11 years.

The school will sequence teaching so that pupils are supported and equipped with the knowledge to navigate different experiences in a positive way before they occur, and to prevent harms. However the school is aware that all pupils may come into lessons with differing prior knowledge and experiences. Pupils are encouraged, where appropriate (and in an appropriate manner) to share their understanding of different topics discussed, in order (only) to aid the learning of others and build confidence in participation.

5.7 Teaching Methods

The RSHE programme will be taught through a range of teaching methods, including, but not limited to:

- Structured lesson planning and resources from 1Decision
- Discussion
- Debate
- Circle time
- Power point presentations
- Videos
- Photographs
- Relatable examples, linking to other parts of the School curriculum
- Visiting Speakers (see below 5.8)

5.8 Visiting Speakers

Please see the Safeguarding and Child Protection Policy for procedures around Visiting Speakers. The Headteacher/Principal (only) will authorise, following a robust due diligence and vetting process, visitors from outside the school, such as school nurses or sexual health professionals, to provide support and training to staff teaching RSHE and/or to deliver certain RSHE lessons to pupils. The school will not use resources from any individual or organisation who hold partisan views on contested topics.

Contractual Restrictions

When contracting with visiting speakers, the school will not agree to any contractual restrictions on showing parents/carers any content that the school will use. The school will communicate to providers that they are legally obliged to have regard to statutory guidance, including the expectation that all content can be shared with parents/carers. Where contractual clauses exist that seek to prevent schools sharing any material at all with parents/carers, they are void and unenforceable. This is because they contradict the clear public policy interest of ensuring that parents/carers are aware of what their children are being taught in RSHE.

Copyright

Where copyright law applies, schools must comply with it when sharing resources with parents/carers. It is best practice to share materials via a “parent portal” or, if this is not possible, through a presentation. When the school makes documents available to parents/carers, they will acknowledge the provider’s authorship. The school will include a statement that parents/carers agree to as a condition of access, in that the content should not be copied or shared further except as authorised under copyright law. Where relevant and possible, IT systems will also be in place to prevent downloading.

5.9 Timetabling

RSHE is delivered within the existing PSHE timetable across most year groups. Pupils in Years 1–6 have two timetabled PSHE sessions of 30 minutes per week. In the Early Years Foundation Stage (EYFS), PSHE is embedded throughout the curriculum in a manner appropriate to the age and stage of the children.

The timing of specific RSHE topics can be found in the curriculum map at Appendix 3. Where appropriate, Relationships Education and Sex Education topics are blocked within a single half term to allow for focused and coherent delivery. In these instances, the PSHE timetable is adapted to provide additional time for teaching – this is most commonly applied to the Puberty and Conception topics in Upper Key Stage 2, where extended session time supports more thorough coverage and greater opportunity for pupil questions and discussion.

5.10 Assessment

The school assesses pupils' learning and progression in RSHE through a variety of methods, appropriate to the material being taught and the age of the pupils.

Assessment styles include, but are not limited to:

- Baseline assessments – Pupils complete a baseline assessment at the start of each RSHE unit to establish prior knowledge and inform planning.
- End-of-unit assessments – An assessment task is completed at the close of each unit to provide an informal measure of pupil progress and understanding, appropriate to the nature of the subject.
- Traffic light self-assessment – Pupils use a traffic light system to self-assess their confidence and understanding at the end of RSHE lessons, providing immediate lesson-level feedback.
- Self-evaluation – Pupils are given opportunities to reflect on and evaluate their own learning and personal development throughout RSHE units.
- Written tasks and reflective activities – As part of the planned curriculum, pupils complete written tasks and short reflective activities within their curriculum workbooks, providing an ongoing record of engagement and learning, and supporting consolidation of understanding in an age-appropriate way.
- Discussions – Class and group discussions are used to assess pupils' understanding, attitudes, and ability to engage thoughtfully with RSHE topics.
- Q&A sessions – Question and answer sessions allow teachers to gauge pupil understanding and address misconceptions in real time.
- Individual input into activities – Pupils' contributions to structured activities provide evidence of engagement and understanding.
- Presentations of topics – Where appropriate, pupils present their learning, demonstrating knowledge and understanding of RSHE content.
- End of topic quizzes – Short quizzes at the end of topics provide a summative snapshot of pupil knowledge and retention.
- Ask It Basket (Question Box) – An anonymous question box used following lessons, allowing pupils to raise questions or areas of uncertainty, which also serves as an informal indicator of understanding and areas requiring further exploration.
- Verbal feedback – Teachers gather verbal feedback from pupils during and following RSHE lessons, enabling real-time assessment of understanding and pupil experience.
- Observational assessment – Staff observe pupil engagement, responses, and contributions during lessons as an ongoing, informal assessment of understanding and emotional readiness.
- Teacher annotations – Staff record informal notes on pupil progress and engagement to inform future planning and identify pupils who may need additional support.

These various methods of assessing pupils' engagement with RSHE provide vital feedback to the staff on their progress, giving a basis to provide individual support where necessary.

5.11 Intended Outcomes

As a result of our RSHE programme, pupils will both now, and in their future lives:

- Understand the importance of inclusivity and respect for diversity
- Be able to use their critical thinking and have the knowledge to make informed life choices
- Be aware of their bodies and their rights
- Know and understand the need for healthy eating and exercise
- Understand the range of feelings and emotions they may encounter
- Be able to recognise when and how to ask for help and/or advice when needed
- Be confident in themselves and strive to reach their aspirations
- Develop skills to deal with a range of different situations sympathetically and sensitively

- Understand the importance of listening to others
- Understand how they play a part in society
- Understand how their conduct affects others
- Be aware of dangers
- Know how to stay safe both online and offline
- Develop life skills to enable them to continue to develop and grow
- Learn about Fundamental British Values

6. Curriculum Content

6.1 Primary- Relationships Education

Please see Appendix 2 for full topic content

The focus for primary relationships education will be on teaching the skills and knowledge that form the building blocks of all positive relationships, supporting pupils from the start of their education to grow into kind, caring adults who have respect for others and know how to keep themselves and others safe.

Building pupils' understanding and skills at primary is essential for preparing them for more complex content at the secondary stage of their education. For example, in primary, pupils will learn skills for managing difficult feelings in their friendships, like disappointment or anger. This prepares them to reflect on how to behave with kindness in more complex or challenging relationships at secondary.

Our primary relationships education will be anchored in an understanding of positive relationships, but will also equip pupils to keep themselves and others safe, and to recognise and report risks and abuse, including online. This will be delivered by focusing on boundaries, privacy, and children's rights over their own bodies and personal information.

Everyone has relationships with others, and most pupils will develop sexual relationships at some point in their lives. Relationships education will equip pupils with the knowledge and skills they need to act with kindness and respect in all their relationships as they grow into adulthood, to enjoy their relationships, and to keep themselves and others safe.

Relationships Education will focus on how to form and sustain positive relationships but will also help pupils identify risks and harms. Relationships Education may therefore include topics related to preventing sexual abuse, for example, or avoiding sharing inappropriate material online. This will be done without describing the detail of any sexual activity involved.

Similarly, good safeguarding practice requires pupils to understand the correct terms for different parts of the body and to be able to confidently use these terms. This will be provided as part of Health Education in the primary stage, without describing any detail of sexual activity.

Pupils will be taught, in an age appropriate way to recognise emotional, physical and sexual abuse. Even very young pupils can be equipped to understand what counts as abusive behaviour and to trust their instincts about behaviour that does not feel right. In addition, pupils will be supported to understand about bullying, and that this can include the use of derogatory terms relating to sex, race, religion, disability or sexual orientation. Pupils will be taught how to report concerns and seek advice. While teaching pupils how to stay safe, including online, pupils will be introduced to protective and preventative content in a way that does not cause unreasonable alarm and does not appear to normalise risky behaviours or activities. For example, in late primary, the school may decide to discuss pressure to share naked images if this is affecting pupils in the school. There may also be cases, such as when they know that pupils have seen pornography, in which the school may feel the need to discuss online sexual content. All teaching will be age appropriate and respectful of all pupils, including those who may have no familiarity with the topics under discussion.

The schools will inform parents/carers of any deviation from this published RSHE Policy in advance and share any relevant materials with them on request.

6.2 Primary- Sex Education-

Sex Education is not compulsory in primary schools, but the UK government recommends that primaries teach sex education in Years 5 and/or 6, in line with content about conception and birth, which forms part of the curriculum for science. The curriculum for Science includes subject content in related areas to conception and birth, such as the main external body parts, the human body as it grows from birth to old age (including puberty) and reproduction in some plants and animals. Schools may also cover human reproduction in Science lessons, but where they do so, this should be in line with the factual description of conception in the science curriculum.

The school will consult parents/carers about the content of anything that will be taught within Science that involves aspects of Sex Education. This process will include offering parents/carers support in talking to their children about sex education and how to link this with what is being taught in school, as well as advice about parents' right to request withdrawal from sex education (see Section 9).

Health and wellbeing: Primary

See Appendix 3 for full topic content

Health Education in primary starts with the benefits and importance of physical activity, good nutrition and sufficient sleep, and supports pupils to develop emotional awareness. The school will emphasise the relationships between physical health and mental wellbeing, and the benefits of physical activity and time spent outdoors. As in all of RSHE, care will be taken to avoid exposing pupils to concepts which are not appropriate for them.

7. Safeguarding

For more information, please see the Safeguarding and Child Protection Policy.

7.1 New and/or emerging risks/issues

The school will maintain a relevant and responsive curriculum to ensure that any particular, new, and/or emerging risks or issues that are affecting the pupils in the school (locally or nationally) are addressed and responded to in a timely manner so that the pupils are kept as safe as possible on/offline. Where appropriate, the school will work with local partners and other bodies to understand specific local issues/risks.

The school reserves the right to adapt the curricula and to vary resources as and when necessary to respond to the above risks/issues. However, the school will inform parents/carers in advance of any deviation from our published RSHE policy, including the reasons why they are covering this content, and will share any relevant materials with them on request in advance of the planned sessions.

Managing Questions

Confidentiality arrangements must be clearly explained to pupils prior to sessions, and they should be made aware of where they can report any concerns and seek help, including to external services. Pupils are regularly reminded about who to contact if they would like to talk, for example: Form Teachers, Deputy Heads, PSHE/RSHE Lead(s), Wellbeing Leads. Telephone numbers or websites of relevant supporting agencies and organisations are displayed in lessons where appropriate.

All teaching will be age appropriate and respectful of all pupils, including those who may have no familiarity with the topics under discussion. Pupils will be introduced to protective and preventative content in a way that does not cause unreasonable alarm and does not appear to normalise risky behaviours or activities. When teaching sensitive topics, staff will use approaches such as distancing techniques, setting ground rules with the class to help manage sensitive discussion, and using question boxes to allow pupils to raise issues anonymously.

Pupils will be made to feel that they are able to ask any question they wish and that their questions are valued. However, consideration is given to staff responses to ensure they are appropriate to prior learning and readiness of pupils. For example, pupils may ask questions about topics which go beyond any sex education covered by the school or relate to sex education from which they have been withdrawn. In handling these situations, the emphasis will always be on supporting the pupil, recognising that those whose questions go unanswered might instead turn to inappropriate sources of information, including online. Support offered by staff may include speaking to them about their question following the session, asking them to speak to their parents/carers, and/ or gaining support from the DSL/DDSL. Staff can ask a pupil to wait for an answer to a question if they need time to consult with the Designated Safeguarding Lead (DSL)

Managing Disclosures

The nature and content of lessons at times means pupils may share information of a personal nature. Staff are aware that effective RSHE including the discussion of more sensitive topics, brings an understanding to pupils of what is and what is not appropriate, and that this can lead to a disclosure of a safeguarding or child protection issue. Any safeguarding concerns arising from something that a pupil has disclosed/asked will be managed according to the Safeguarding and Child Protection Policy.

Mandatory Reporting

Staff will be aware of mandatory reporting duties according to the country in which their school is located.

Staff will be aware of mandatory reporting duties, including relating to FGM, and that virginity testing and hymenoplasty became illegal in 2022.

Under the Crime and Policing Act \(2026\) there is now a mandatory reporting duty for staff in regard to reporting concerns about child sexual abuse.

The duty requires those taking part in regulated activity to make a report if they:

- are told about child sexual abuse, either by a child or an adult involved
- witness child sexual abuse in person
- see or hear it in the form of images, videos or audio recordings

8. Monitoring and evaluation arrangements

8.1 Monitoring

The delivery of our RSHE programme is monitored through the following methods:

- Lesson observations – Observations of RSHE lessons are undertaken by the PSHE lead, specialist RSHE teacher, and senior leadership, to ensure consistency of teaching, age-appropriate delivery, and the safety and wellbeing of pupils.
- Planning and resource scrutiny – RSHE planning and resources are reviewed by the RSHE leads prior to delivery to ensure content is appropriate, well-sequenced, and aligned with statutory requirements and the school's curriculum map.
- Pupil voice – Feedback gathered through the Ask It Basket/question box, verbal feedback, and self-assessment activities is reviewed regularly to monitor pupil experience and identify any areas requiring attention or adjustment.
- Assessment data review – Baseline and end-of-unit assessment outcomes are monitored by the RSHE leads to identify trends in pupil understanding and progress across year groups.

- Staff feedback – Feedback from staff delivering RSHE is gathered through staff meetings, briefings, and one-to-one conversations with the RSHE leads, enabling any concerns or challenges to be identified and addressed promptly.
- Parent and carer feedback – Any feedback received from parents and carers in relation to RSHE is logged and reviewed by the RSHE leads and senior leadership, informing any necessary adjustments to content or communication.

8.2 Evaluating

When evaluating the use and impact of this policy, school leaders will evaluate the extent to which there is evidence of a curriculum which:

- Fulfils the aims of the school – Evidence that the RSHE curriculum aligns with and actively supports the broader aims, ethos, and values of Breaside Preparatory School.
- Embeds aspiration and the development of personal attributes – Recognising that RSHE is not a traditionally academic subject, progress is understood as a gradual building of knowledge, understanding, attitudes, and skills over time. The curriculum is evaluated on the extent to which it supports pupils' personal development and lays strong foundations for their wellbeing, relationships, and understanding of the world as they grow.
- Provides engagement and excitement for learning – Evidence that pupils are actively engaged in RSHE lessons and that the curriculum is delivered in a way that is meaningful, relevant, and age-appropriate.
- Meets statutory requirements – Evidence that the RSHE curriculum fulfils all statutory requirements as set out in current government guidance, with full curriculum coverage documented and evidenced.
- Is responsive to pupil need – Evidence that assessment data, pupil voice, and staff feedback have been used to adapt and improve the curriculum, ensuring it remains relevant and appropriate to the needs of each cohort.
- Supports pupil wellbeing – Evidence that the RSHE programme contributes positively to pupils' emotional wellbeing, personal development, and understanding of healthy relationships, in line with the school's pastoral ethos.
- Is delivered consistently and confidently – Evidence that all staff feel supported and prepared in their delivery of RSHE, and that teaching is consistent in quality and approach across year groups.
- Engages and informs parents and carers – Evidence that parents and carers are kept well informed about the RSHE curriculum, feel confident in the school's approach, and are supported in continuing conversations about these topics at home.
- Reflects the school's core values – Evidence that the RSHE curriculum embodies Breaside's values of resilience, respect, inclusivity, independence, and curiosity, and contributes to pupils' development as confident, informed, and empathetic global citizens.

9. Right to withdraw

See Appendix 1 for Right to Withdraw Form

Parents/carers do not have the right to withdraw their child from relationships and health education. However, the School recognises that parents/carers have the final decision about their child's sex education in the Primary stage of education.

Parents have the right to withdraw their children from the non-statutory/non-science components of sex education (only) within RSHE up to and until 3 terms before the child turns 16 and the Headteacher/Principal must automatically grant their request.

Alternative work must be given to pupils who are withdrawn from sex education. This must be appropriate and purposeful.

After that point, if their child wishes to receive sex education rather than be withdrawn (even if the parents/carers have requested withdrawal) the school will make arrangements to provide the pupil with sex education during one of those terms.

Schools should ensure that pupils know they have this option.

In secondary schools, Headteachers/Principals can refuse a request in exceptional circumstances, for example because of safeguarding concerns or a pupil's specific vulnerability*.

The process is the same for pupils with SEND. There may be exceptional circumstances where the Headteacher/Principal may wish to take a pupil's specific needs arising from their SEND into account when making the decision.

*Should there be any Safeguarding concerns that arise from, or are linked to the parents/carers request to withdraw their child, the Safeguarding and Child Protection Policy will apply, and consideration may be given to seeking advice from the local children's services.

Step 1:

Requests for withdrawal should be put in writing by the parents/carers using the form found in Appendix 1 of this policy and addressed to the Headteacher/Principal. The copy of the withdrawal request will be placed in the pupil's educational record.

Step 2:

Before granting any request for withdrawal of a pupil from sex education, the Headteacher/Principal will discuss the request with the pupil's parents/carers (and the pupil if appropriate) to understand their request and to clarify the nature and purpose of the curriculum. This is likely to include discussing the benefits of sex education, and any detrimental effects of withdrawal, including social and emotional impacts on their child, and the likelihood that their child will hear their peers' version of what was said in class, which may not be accurate.

The Headteacher/Principal must document this process to ensure a record is kept.

Step 3:

Once those discussions have taken place, if the parents/carers still wish to withdraw their child, the Headteacher/Principal must grant their request to withdraw a pupil from any sex education delivered, other than as part of the science curriculum.

Primary Relationships Education: curriculum content

Families and people who care for me

1. That families are important for children growing up safe and happy because they can provide love, security and stability.
2. The characteristics of safe and happy family life, such as commitment to each other, including in times of difficulty, protection and care for children and other family members, the importance of spending time together and sharing each other's lives.
3. That the families of other children, either in school or in the wider world, sometimes look different from their family, but that they should respect those differences and know that other children's families are also characterised by love and care.
4. That stable, caring relationships are at the heart of safe and happy families and are important for children's security as they grow up.
5. That marriage and civil partnerships represent a formal and legally recognised commitment of two people to each other which is intended to be lifelong.
6. How to recognise if family relationships are making them feel unhappy or unsafe, and how to seek help or advice from others if needed.

Caring friendships

1. How important friendships are in making us feel happy and secure, and how people choose and make friends.
2. That healthy friendships are positive and welcoming towards others, and do not make others feel lonely or excluded. Pupils should learn skills for developing caring, kind friendships.
3. That not every child will have the friends they would like at all times, that most people feel lonely sometimes, and that there is no shame in feeling lonely or talking about it.
4. The characteristics of friendships that lead to happiness and security, including mutual respect, honesty, trustworthiness, loyalty, kindness, generosity, trust, sharing interests and experiences, and support with problems and difficulties.
5. That most friendships have ups and downs, and that these can often be worked through so that the friendship is repaired or even strengthened.
6. How to manage conflict, and that resorting to violence is never right.
7. How to recognise when a friendship is making them feel unhappy or uncomfortable, and how to get support when needed

Respectful Kind Relationships

1. How to pay attention to the needs and preferences of others, including in families and friendships. Pupils should be encouraged to discuss how we balance the needs and wishes of different people in relationships and why this can be complicated.
2. The importance of setting and respecting healthy boundaries in relationships with friends, family, peers and adults.

3. How to communicate effectively and manage conflict with kindness and respect; how to be assertive and express needs and boundaries; how to manage feelings, including disappointment and frustration.
4. Pupils should have opportunities to discuss the difference between being assertive and being controlling, and conversely the difference between being kind to other people and neglecting your own needs.
5. That they can expect to be treated with respect by others, and the importance of respecting others, including those who are different (for example, physically, in character, personality or backgrounds), or make different choices, or have different preferences or beliefs.
6. Practical steps they can take and skills they can develop in a range of different contexts to improve or support their relationships.
7. The conventions of courtesy and manners.
8. The importance of self-respect and how this links to their own happiness. Pupils should have opportunities to think about how they foster their own self-esteem and build a strong sense of their own identity, including through developing skills and interests.
9. The different types of bullying (including online bullying), the impact of bullying, responsibilities of bystanders (primarily reporting bullying to an adult), and how to get help.
10. What a stereotype is, how stereotypes can be unfair, negative, destructive or lead to bullying and how to challenge a stereotype.
11. How to seek help when needed, including when they are concerned about violence, harm, or when they are unsure who to trust.

Online safety and awareness

1. That people should be respectful in online interactions, and that the same principles apply to online relationships as to face-to-face relationships, including where people are anonymous. For example, the importance of avoiding putting pressure on others to share information and images online, and strategies for resisting peer pressure.
2. How to critically evaluate their online relationships and sources of information, including awareness of the risks associated with people they have never met. For example, that people sometimes behave differently online, including pretending to be someone else, or pretending to be a child, and that this can lead to dangerous situations. How to recognise harmful content or harmful contact, and how to report this.
3. That there is a minimum age for joining social media sites (currently 13), which protects children from inappropriate content or unsafe contact with older social media users, who may be strangers, including other children and adults.
4. The importance of exercising caution about sharing any information about themselves online. Understanding the importance of privacy and location settings to protect information online.
5. Online risks, including that any material provided online might be circulated, and that once a picture or words has been circulated there is no way of deleting it everywhere and no control over where it ends up.
6. That the internet contains a lot of content that can be inappropriate and upsetting for children, and where to go for advice and support when they feel worried or concerned about something they have seen or engaged with online.

Being Safe

1. What sorts of boundaries are appropriate in friendships with peers and others (including online). This can include learning about boundaries in play and in negotiations about space, toys, books, resources etc.
2. The concept of privacy and its implications for both children and adults; including that it is not always right to keep secrets if they relate to being safe.
3. That each person's body belongs to them, and the differences between appropriate and inappropriate or unsafe contact, including physical contact.
4. How to respond safely and appropriately to adults they may encounter (in all contexts, including online), including those they do and do not know.
5. How to recognise when a relationship is harmful or dangerous, including skills for recognising who to trust and who not to trust.
6. How to report abuse, concerns about something seen online or experienced in real life, or feelings of being unsafe or feeling bad about any adult and the vocabulary and confidence needed to do so.
7. How to ask for advice or help for themselves or others, and to keep trying until they are heard. Where to get advice e.g. family, school and/or other sources.

Appendix 3

Primary Health and Wellbeing: curriculum content

General wellbeing

1. The benefits of physical activity, time outdoors, and helping others for health, wellbeing and happiness. Simple self-care techniques, including the importance of rest, time spent with friends and family, as well as hobbies, interests and community participation.
2. The importance of promoting general wellbeing and physical health.
3. The range and scale of emotions (e.g. happiness, sadness, anger, fear, surprise, nervousness) that they might experience in different situations. Pupils should understand that worrying and feeling down are normal, affect everyone at different times, and are not in themselves a sign of a mental health condition.
4. How to recognise feelings and use varied vocabulary to talk about their own and others' feelings.
5. How to judge whether what they are feeling and how they are behaving is appropriate and proportionate.
6. That isolation and loneliness can affect children, and the benefits of seeking support.
7. That bullying (including cyberbullying) has a negative and often lasting impact on mental wellbeing and how to seek help for themselves or others.

8. That change and loss, including bereavement, can provoke a range of feelings, that grief is a natural response to bereavement, and that everyone grieves differently.
9. Where and how to seek support (including recognising the triggers for seeking support), including who in school they should speak to if they are worried about their own or someone else's mental wellbeing or ability to control their emotions (including issues arising online).
10. That it is common to experience mental health problems, and early support can help.

Wellbeing online

1. That for almost everyone the internet is an integral part of life. Pupils should be supported to think about positive and negative aspects of the internet.
2. Pupils should be supported to discuss how online relationships can complement and support meaningful in-person relationships, but also how they might be in tension, and the reasons why online relationships are unlikely to be a good substitute for high quality in-person relationships, looking at the pros and cons of different ways of using online connection.
3. The benefits of limiting time spent online, the risks of excessive time spent on electronic devices and the impact of positive and negative content online on their own and others' mental and physical wellbeing.
4. How to consider the impact of their online behaviour on others, and how to recognise and display respectful behaviour online.
5. Why social media, some apps, computer games and online gaming, including gambling sites, are age restricted.
6. The risks relating to online gaming, video game monetisation, scams, fraud and other financial harms, and that gaming can become addictive.
7. How to take a critical approach to what they see and read online and make responsible decisions about which content, including content on social media and apps, is appropriate for them.
8. That abuse, bullying and harassment can take place online and that this can impact wellbeing. How to seek support from trusted adults.
9. How to understand the information they find online, including from search engines, and know how information is selected and targeted.
10. That they have rights in relation to sharing personal data, privacy and consent.
11. Where and how to report concerns and get support with issues online.

Physical health and fitness

1. The characteristics and mental and physical benefits of an active lifestyle.
2. The importance of building regular physical activity into daily and weekly routines and how to achieve this; for example, walking or cycling to school, a daily active mile or other forms of regular, moderate and/or vigorous physical activity.

3. The risks associated with an inactive lifestyle, including obesity.
4. How and when to seek support including which adults to speak to in school if they are worried about their health.

Healthy Eating

1. What constitutes a healthy diet (including understanding calories and other nutritional content).
2. Understanding the importance of a healthy relationship with food.
3. The principles of planning and preparing a range of healthy meals.
4. The characteristics of a poor diet and risks associated with unhealthy eating (including, for example, obesity and tooth decay) and other behaviours (e.g. the impact of alcohol on diet or health).

Drugs, alcohol, tobacco and vaping

1. The facts about legal and illegal harmful substances and associated risks, including smoking, vaping, alcohol use and drug-taking.

This should include the risks of nicotine addiction, which are also caused by other nicotine products such as nicotine pouches.

Health protection and prevention

1. How to recognise early signs of physical illness, such as weight loss, or unexplained changes to the body.
2. About safe and unsafe exposure to the sun, and how to reduce the risk of sun damage, including skin cancer.
3. The importance of sufficient good quality sleep for health, the amount of sleep recommended for their age, and practical steps for improving sleep, such as not using screens in the bedroom. The impact of poor sleep on weight, mood and ability to learn.
4. About dental health and the benefits of good oral hygiene, including brushing teeth twice a day with fluoride toothpaste, cleaning between teeth, and regular check-ups at the dentist.
5. About personal hygiene and germs including bacteria, viruses, how they are spread and treated, and the importance of handwashing.
6. The facts and scientific evidence relating to vaccination and immunisation. The introduction of topics relating to vaccination and immunisation should be aligned with when vaccinations are offered to pupils.

Personal safety

1. About hazards (including fire risks) that may cause harm, injury or risk and ways to reduce risks.
2. How to recognise risk and keep safe around roads, railways, including level crossings, and water, including the water safety code.

Basic first aid

1. How to make a clear and efficient call to emergency services if necessary, including the importance of reporting incidents rather than filming them.
2. Concepts of basic first aid, for example dealing with common injuries and ailments, including head injuries.

Developing bodies

1. About growth and other ways the body can change and develop, particularly during adolescence. This topic should include the human lifecycle, and puberty should be discussed as a stage in this process.
2. The correct names of body parts, including the penis, vulva, vagina, testicles, scrotum, nipples. Pupils should understand that all of these parts of the body are private and have skills to understand and express their own boundaries around these body parts.

The facts about the menstrual cycle, including physical and emotional changes, whilst the average age of the onset of menstruation is twelve, periods can start at eight, so covering this topic before girls' periods start will help them understand what to expect and avoid distress.

Appendix 5 Curriculum Resources

The UK Department for Education page brings together all existing information available to schools on the teaching of the RSHE curriculum. This includes parent guides and guidance in engaging parents on Relationships education.

- Schools may also wish to see a series of DfE sexual harassment webinars covering domestic abuse, pornography and sexual exploitation.
- Non-statutory framework for Citizenship KS 1 and 2 (Non-statutory programme of study). Schools may wish to draw on the statutory Citizenship programme of study for KS 3 and 4 in their planning.
- Oak National Academy, the independent provider of freely available online curriculum and lesson resources, are developing curriculum materials to make sure every school can access high-quality, compliant resources which will build on what is already available for schools.
